Intensive Systematic Surveys in the Hinterland of Abila and Umm el-Jimal (Dekapolis Region, Northern Jordan)

Dominik Hagmann – Nora Voss
Amman, 29.09.2015

Landscape Archaeology of Northern Jordan in the Context of the Geoarchaeology of the Levant
Historical Landuse and Landscape Reconstruction in the Dekapolis Region (Jordan)
Projected sites

2014: Abila

2015: Umm el-Jimal
What kind of raw data?

material culture

particularly small finds (pottery sherds, metal fragments...)

D. Hagmann – Photo: H. Liedl 2015
What kind of raw data?

spatial and nonspatial data

vectors

3D-points

qualitative and quantitative attributes

tables (numeric, text)

total of finds, time, direction, visibility, fabric...
method

tract survey | adaptive fields
example: 1 field, 4 plots, 3 tracts

6000 m² → 1200 m²
20% COVERAGE
intensive systematic Hinterland-survey Umm-el-Jimal 2015
Field | Plots | Tracts

D. Hagmann 2015

Source: Esri, DigitalGlobe, GeoEye, Earthstar Geographics, USDA, USGS, AEX, Getmapping, Aerogrid, IGN, IGP, swisstopo, and the GIS User Community
sampling process (Abila 2014)
bagging (Abila 2014)

tract form